The Homestead.

We publish this morning "An Act Lay off the Homestead and Personal Property Exemption." Its importance is manifest, and our readers had better preserve a copy for future reference.

Cotton Manufactories.

We are glad to know that there is quite a movement going on in South Carolina and Georgia in forming joint-stock companies and erecting manufactories. The very great success of those already in operation has called the attention of Northern and home capitalists to the great profit in manufacturing the raw material into fabrics where it is raised, and where the goods are worn. Senator Sprague, one of the wealthiest and most successful manufacturers in the United States, has recently made extensive purchases in the immediate neighborhood of Columbia, while at other points large investments have been made, and work has begun upon the erection of proper buildings. We met on more than one occasion during the past Winter Northern capitalists or their accredited agents looking for suitable localities for pany the erection of manufactories.

The South abounds in sites for factories. Labor is cheaper here than at the North. We have the raw material on the spot, and it can pass from the gin house to the spindle at little expense. We have the energy, the business capacity, and by proper association, the means to erect and to work remain "hewers of wood and drawers of water" to the nabobs who own the manufactories of the North and control the legislation of Congress, it is our own fau't. If we continue to suffer the expense imposed by freight, insurance, drayage, storage, weighage, pressage, commissions, warehouse charges, bills of lading and stealage, which diminish the value of a bale of cotton almost one-half, we are paying dearly for our want of energy and enterprise. The time has passed away when we can relyupon the muscles of men and mules to build up the wealth of our section. The advantages of our soil and climate will avail as little if we permit those less favored in these respects to more than compensate for the shortness of seasons and the poverty of soil, by the use of improved implements in farming and the employment of their capital in manufacturing the material which we raise into fabrics for our

We must reverse the old rule. The mills must seek the cotton. "Mahomet to the mountain." Another profitable season will leave the cotton planters with a surplus on hand. channels of investment are closed. Labor no longer the subject of trade. Our people have more than enough lands for all their purposes. The planter must also become the manufacturer. We must no longer pay an expensive tribute to the enterprising Yankee for the privilege of bringing back our cotton in the form of pictured calicoes, realizing as he does enormous fortunes in the transformation.

We are glad to learn that south of us the people are waking up to the vast importance of this work. If those immediately around us are yet asleep to the advantages of manufacturing, it is a satisfaction to know that their neighbors are not. The South has more to hope from through this means than any other. The completion of railroads and the wealth of her mines will do much for the South, but nothing will so develop the boundless resources of her soil and the energies of her people, as the establishment of manufactories and the conversion of the raw material of her own fields into fabrics for home consumption and articles of foreign commerce. We are sure that this section will one day become as noted for its manufactories as for any of the other vast interests which are destined to make the Southern States rich, populous and powerful, and those States and localities which first appreciate its importance and take advantage of its benefits will lead their neighbors in the race for prosperity and wealth.

County Taxes.-We give below a sy. nopsis of the schedule for levying county taxes reported by the Finance committee of the Board of County Commissioners and adopted by that body. It is complete so far as it is possible for it to be without the work of the Board of Assessors. When the official report from that body is received after completing its labors, the necessary additions to this schedule will be made. The schedule is an almost exact counterpart of the Revenue act of the State so far as the subjects of taxation are concerned, and having published that act we deem it only necessary to give a synopsis of the schedule.
